

SAVING ANIMALS FROM EXTINCTION SCAVENGER HUNT

Endangered species can include plants or animals that are likely to become extinct in the near future. Species are placed on a spectrum to determine how endangered they are. Your challenge is to identify each animal's global endangered status. Answers can be found on the animal's identification sign.

If the animal is found in Canada, check if there are differences in status between the global, federal, and provincial levels. If there is a difference, discuss why you think there might be a difference, or how the possible threats may be different throughout the animal's range.
